Golden Text: "Cain and Abel." Gen. IV:1-15.

Golden Text: "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer." I John III:15.

1. Verse 1—Which are more desirable, large or small families?
2. Should every mother, with truth, be able to say from her heart at the birth of each child, "I have gotten a child from the Lord?"

3. Verse 2—In the beginning they seem to have specialized in farming. Would it be wise if farmers were to do that at this time, and why?

4. What is the advantage in giving every boy a trade?

5. Verses 3-4—What is the evidence that worship to God is a universal instinct of the race?

6. Of what use were sheep and vegetables to God?

7. Ought children to be trained to worship and to sacrifice to God, regardless of their dispositions?

8. What made God accept the offering of Abel and reject that of Cain?

9. Suppose Abel had been the gardener and had brought to God his first fruits and Cain had kept sheep and had brought to God the firstlings of his flock, would it have made any difference as to the way the offerings were received?

10. Verses 5-7—Which class of men generally show the greatest resentment, and why—those who are justly blamed for their sins or those who are blamed unjustly?

11. What sin would you say Cain had been guilty of up to this time?

12. Does all wrong-doing imply that sin, like a beast of prey, is crouching at the door, ready to spring upon the sinner? Give your reasons.

13. What are the conditions for controlling sin, or of being controlled by it? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

14. Verse 8—What is the first

A Stamp Story.

Six years ago a little newspaper on the edge of a Florida swamp published a brief notice that the government "would redeem at one-fourth their face value all cancelled postage stamps returned to the post office department at Washington."

A prominent post office officer tells of the widespread effect:

"How people could credit such a statement is a mystery. But they did and the notice was widely copied. Eventually the story was syndicated through hundreds of country newspapers, and one department is still suffering from the results."

"Letters of inquiry and express packages of old stamps overwhelmed the office at Washington, until we finally had to employ five or six extra clerks to tell the would-be redeemers the truth of the little tale. It was a rather disagreeable job, too. Some of the letters were pathetic, and I hate to think of the number of people who were disappointed, all because some crack-brain editor published that idiotic notice."

"Even now, and it is at least six years since the notice came out, we receive letters and stamps at least every week from some sequestered spot that has just heard the news."

A baby would rather go to sleep than listen to a lullaby.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN

Who are "Just Ready to Drop."

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, then you need help right away.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks, but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicine I ever took."

If the careworn, haggard men and women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they, too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderfully strengthening and invigorating body-builder, and we sell it under an ironclad guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. J. W. Bell, Druggist, Walhalla, S. C.

CLEMSON'S ORIGIN.

(Clemson Cor. The State.)

In your issue of January 9th Dr. J. W. Daniel, of Charleston, is quoted as stating that he is responsible for Clemson College; that it was he who set Col. Simpson on the track of the agricultural idea when Col. Simpson was ready to urge Mr. Clemson to give his property to Wofford College.

The friends of the late Col. R. W. Simpson have thought, and still think, that in the conception, establishment and development of this great institution there is "glory enough to go round," due credit being given to Senator Tillman, Col. Simpson and others who have helped to shape the destiny of Clemson College. If Dr. Daniel has played his part, by all means let him have such credit. But the friends of the late Col. Simpson object decidedly to the statement that Col. Simpson had ever proposed to divert Mr. Clemson's proposed gift to the State from the original purpose of the giver. Surely Dr. Daniel, a long-life friend of Col. Simpson, has been misquoted or else his memory must be at fault.

Those nearest Col. Simpson say that even in the early 80's Col. Simpson held a long-cherished hope that he might some day be able to serve in the uplift of the agricultural interests of the State. He would have needed, therefore, no suggestions as to advice to give Mr. Clemson—even had Mr. Clemson needed such advice as to the purpose of his gift.

Col. Simpson was never known to claim that he suggested to Mr. Clemson the idea of leaving his property to the State for the founding of an agricultural college, for Col. Simpson was familiar with the facts set forth in the following statements (matters on record), which the writer thinks controvert the statement ascribed to Dr. Daniel:

"Mrs. Aaron Boggs went to see Mrs. Clemson. . . . Mrs. Clemson told her that both she and Mr. Clemson intended to leave Fort Hill to the State for the purpose of erecting an agricultural college." . . .

Extracts from the statement of Rev. Hugh McLees follow: "I was intimately acquainted with the Clemson family from the year 1868 to 1874 inclusive."

"Mrs. Clemson told me she desired to see an industrial institution erected upon the Fort Hill tract of land. It was in litigation at the time, but she considered it her property. Mrs. Clemson reiterated the same thing to me when she was living at Fort Hill, after it had been sold and bought in by her or her trustee. Mrs. Clemson tried to accomplish this purpose during her life-time. In fact, from my personal knowledge of the matter, the idea of erecting an industrial institution at Fort Hill originated with Mrs. Clemson, and Mr. Clemson, in all his talks about the matter, referred to it as 'we,' 'our,' etc."

"Mrs. Clemson talked to me a great deal about the benefits that would accrue to this State from the establishment of such an institution and she was much interested in seeing it accomplished."

"Mr. Clemson continued in his purpose after his wife's death (in 1875) with this difference, that after his wife's death he proposed to give the bulk of all his property with Fort Hill for the accomplishment of this purpose."

"Mr. Clemson told me Mrs. Clemson had made him promise that he would never sell or alienate Fort Hill or put it beyond where the State could get it for agricultural purposes."

(Mr. Clemson) "told me he had willed all his property to the State for the purpose of establishing such an institution and that the papers were in the hands of Col. Rion."

Upon Mr. Rion's death Mr. Clemson made Col. Simpson his attorney, and, in a new will, modifying somewhat the old one, made Col. Simpson his executor. Col. Simpson drew up this will.

Something About Watch Signs.

Nearly all the watch signs, probably 99 out of 100, have their hands set at 8.18, but comparatively few people know why this is. It is no accident. W. K. Washburn, of New York, was painting a sign for a jeweler of that city when the news of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, April 14, 1865, was received in New York, and the jeweler ordered the painter to paint upon the dial the exact time when the fatal shot was fired, namely 8.18, and so it has continued ever since. Whenever you see a sign after this recall to yourself that it points to the fatal moment.

Four million parcels were sent through the parcel post during the first week of its operation.

The man who gambles for fun ought not to expect anything else out of it.

It takes a good pugilist or a poor minister to put his man to sleep.

Gave Up Hope

"I suffered five years, with awful pains, due to womanly troubles," writes Mrs. M. D. McPherson, from Chadbourn, N. C. "They grew worse, till I would often faint. I could not walk at all, and I had an awful hurting in my side; also a headache and a backache."

I gave up and thought I would die, but my husband urged me to try Cardui, so, I began, and the first bottle helped me. By the time the third bottle was used, I could do all my work. All the people around here said I would die, but Cardui relieved me."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

For more than 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings, and making weak women strong and well. During this time, thousands of women have written, like Mrs. McPherson, to tell of the really surprising results they obtained by the use of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

Cardui strengthens, builds, restores, and relieves or prevents unnecessary pain and suffering from womanly troubles. If you are a woman, begin taking Cardui, today.

OLD MAN MEETS TRAGIC DEATH.

R. S. Osteen, of Piedmont, Dies As Result of Injuries.

Greenville, Jan. 16.—As the result of injuries sustained on Augusta street last Monday week, when he was knocked down and run over by a vehicle, R. S. Osteen, of Piedmont, father of Superintendent F. M. Osteen, of F. W. Poe Manufacturing Co., of Greenville, died yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home.

While in Greenville on January 6 Mr. Osteen was crossing Augusta street near the station of the Columbia & Greenville Railway, known as College Place, where he was run down by a negro boy driving a buggy. The blow crushed Mr. Osteen's hip, and as a result from his injury pneumonia set in, from which he died. The negro boy was arrested after the accident and brought before Recorder Watson, charged with reckless driving. The recorder dismissed the charges against the prisoner and he was released. The boy was eight years of age. The buggy is said to have belonged to the Southern Cotton Oil Company and was in charge of one of the employees of that concern. This boy, it is said, had been accustomed to going about in the buggy with the gentleman in question for two years, and had never been entrusted alone with the horse and buggy until the day on which he ran down Mr. Osteen. The negro's name is Bob Harrison.

FLOOD VICTIMS CRYING HELP.

Small Towns in Inundated Territory Are Short of Provisions.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 16.—The Ohio river to-day passed the 46-foot mark, the highest stage for several years, and was expected to go several tenths higher before the crest was reached.

The inundated section of Evansville proper is estimated at three square miles. Many families have been driven to the second stories of their homes by the rising tide, which has covered the downstairs floors to a depth of 18 inches in many cases.

Small towns in the trade district of this city are sending cries for help, as their food supplies are being exhausted. Calhoun, Ky., to-day chartered a steamboat and sent to this city for supplies. Interurban service practically has been abandoned in the flood district.

Driven from Beds.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Jan. 16.—A serious break in the levee early to-day flooded a large portion of the lower part of this city and drove many of the residents from their beds for safety.

The break was discovered by a levee patrolman, who gave the alarm, and the city was aroused by factory whistles and bells. The court house, churches and schools are filled with refugees to-day. Several thousand sacks of gravel were thrown into the break and the danger of a disastrous flood, it was said, has been averted.

It is the things that are whispered that make the most noise and travel fastest.

Tutt's Pills

After eating, persons of a bilious habit will derive great benefit by taking one of these pills. If you have been DRINKING TOO MUCH, they will promptly relieve the nausea.

SICK HEADACHE and nervousness which follows, restore the appetite and remove gloomy feelings. Elegantly sugar coated.

Take No Substitute.

Negress Killed by Young White Man.

Union, Jan. 17.—Lizzie Sims, a negro woman, was accidentally shot and killed yesterday afternoon on a farm about three miles north of this city by John Fawcett, a young white man, a son of M. S. Fawcett, general delivery clerk at the post office here. Fawcett came in yesterday afternoon and surrendered to the sheriff. Subsequently the coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental killing.
